

Biography Of Hamill Serrant

Hamill Serrant's career in the financial sector began following his graduation from Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, where he earned a Bachelor of Science in Economics in 2008. At Trinity, not only did he engage in the academic community as a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity and a class senator, but he also expanded his global perspective through a study abroad experience in Rome's historic Aventine Hill area. This educational background laid the groundwork for his intricate understanding of economic structures and market dynamics.

Early Professional Milestones

Hamill Serrant
Helped generate $10M at Credit Suisse's startup electronic F/X business.

Hamill's professional journey commenced at Credit Suisse during the tumultuous period of the 2008 financial crisis. Initially, he contributed to a joint venture that focused on prime services and low-latency trading solutions. His early tenure at Credit Suisse was marked by rapid advancement, where he played a crucial role in establishing the firm's electronic foreign exchange business in 2009, quickly driving it to achieve $10 million in revenue in its first year.

Advancing through Strategic Roles

Hamill Serrant

Gained Asia Pacific market expertise during a Hong Kong assignment.

As he progressed to the role of Vice President of the International Program Trading Desk at Credit Suisse, Hamill specialized in managing extensive non-dollar portfolio trades. His effective coordination with international teams across continents underscored his capability to navigate complex global markets. His strategic initiatives included streamlining processes for sizeable foreign exchange transactions and managing significant weekly hedges that surpassed $1 billion in notional value.

Leadership at Genesis and FalconX

Before his current engagement, Hamill was pivotal at Genesis as the Director of Institutional Loan Originations, where he led a multi-regional team across Singapore, London, and New York. His efforts magnified the company's outstanding loans by over twenty times and notably enhanced client engagement and revenue. His tenure at Genesis was characterized by significant enhancements in operational efficiency and customer service, which quadrupled the firm's revenue and expanded its client base substantially.

Currently, at FalconX, Hamill oversees Institutional Coverage, operating from locations in San Mateo, California, and New York. His role is crucial in managing relationships with key institutional clients involved in systematic, discretionary, and derivatives trading in the digital assets space.

Community Involvement and Personal Life

Hamill Serrant

Held roles at Credit Suisse, managing global portfolio trades and F/X transactions.

Hamill's father, a public school teacher, raised him in Westchester, New York. His upbringing instilled in him a strong sense of community and responsibility. He actively contributes to various causes, including educational institutions like Trinity College, community organizations, and golf-related charities.

Hamill's interests include golf and marathon running. Despite the setback of the 2012 New York City Marathon cancellation due to Hurricane Sandy, he demonstrated his resilience by running the Philadelphia Marathon that year and participating in the NYC Marathon the following year.

Current Endeavors and Outlook

Hamill Serrant

Holds Series 3, 7, 55, and 63 financial licenses.

A professional headshot of Hamill Serrant, a Black man with short dark hair, wearing a dark blue quilted jacket over a white collared shirt. The photo is set within a white rectangular frame with a green border, which is part of a larger graphic design featuring green and grey wavy shapes and a small green diamond icon.

Hamill Serrant now resides in the San Francisco Bay Area, where he continues to be a significant influencer in the realm of financial services, particularly in the innovative field of digital assets. His career is distinguished by his deep commitment to enhancing operational efficiencies and his strategic approach to client engagement and business growth within the finance industry.