ABOUT ME

I am Kimberly Nelms, a Charlotte-based author, speaker, and podcast host with a passion for touching lives through my work. My journey as a writer led to the publication of my first book, "Sever The Ties," on June 1, 2022, which explores my personal battles with trauma, healing, and deliverance. The book's powerful message resonated with many, earning me a spot on the cover of Today's Purpose Woman and features in "9 Books about Women , Adversity & Overcoming Through God's Power." My achievements are not limited to the written word, as I have shared my insights on various platforms, aiming to empower and inspire.

Aside from writing, I am the voice behind "KimberlySpeaking," a podcast that offers inspiration and tackles a spectrum of life's challenges. Available on all major podcast platforms and YouTube, the show is an extension of my desire to connect and engage with a broader audience. Beyond the mic, I relish time with my family and actively engage in my community. Whether at Business Expos or through vending events, I promote All Things Kimberly, seeking to build networks with fellow entrepreneurs and philanthropists dedicated to making impactful contributions to the community and beyond.
