ABOUT

As a broke college graduate trying to navigate repayment of student loan debt, I quickly realized I was not alone in an overwhelming feeling of helplessness. After attending countless workshops and reading all the personal finance books I could get my hands on, I put into practice what I was learning. Within 10 months of graduation I became student debt free, and realized this was just the beginning of a life long journey to building wealth.

Launched in 2019, my mission with LMF is simple; to help individuals build a life they love. How? By translating confusing and overwhelming financial concepts into clear, actionable steps.

After 4 years of building my business while simultaneously working in Corporate America, my passion motivated me to leave a generous salary and become immersed full-time as Little Miss Finance. Incorporating my personal experience with my professional passion for helping others, I offer financial education through interactive speaking engagements and hands-on workshops.
