Finding Work That Matters

Motivational Speaker, Coach, Facilitator & Podcast Host

My mission is to empower midlife professionals to reclaim joy, purpose, and fulfillment in their careers, finding work that matters by guiding them through pivotal moments of transition with confidence and clarity.

My why stems from a deep-seated belief in the potential for growth and transformation especially when we feel like we are over the hill. I'm passionate about helping midlifers navigate the complexities of career transitions, whether it's finding meaning in their current roles, pursuing new opportunities, or reinventing their professional paths altogether.

My mission statement is simple yet powerful: to change the way we work at work, infusing joy, engagement, success, and mattering back into the workplace.
