

Elevated Leadership

Mark Greenburg

I am the owner and founder of Elevated Leadership., and I deliver TRAINING, COACHING and STRATEGIC PLANNING to teams looking for a unique perspective on leadership development, engagement, and motivation.

With more than 20 years of experience working at an elite private day school and as the owner of the #1 summer day camp in Chicago, I have dedicated my work helping people remove obstacles that once seemed impossible.

What I've learned in over two decades is that true leaders always work to improve their own skills and support the development of the people around them. My favorite client engagements are ones where a team is looking to increase self-awareness, positivity, accountability and trust.

“Mark provides valuable insight into interpersonal communication, motivation, and employee engagement. Mark has made a huge impact in our team’s mindset and ability, I’m sure he’s going to do the same for you.”

Owner
Goldfish Swim School

Oh, and did I mention I look for any excuse I can find to talk about baseball? I'm the author of Elevated Leadership: A Pitch-by-Pitch Guide to Business, Life and Baseball (2019).

Mark is available for Keynote Speeches and Training Sessions based on these topics:

Empowerment: Turn Down The Noise and Ignite Your Team One of the biggest challenges we all face in the workplace is how to prioritize effectively. To help us better understand what deserves our attention, sometimes we need to let go of whatever is getting in the way. We can all expect to encounter some stress and distractions in our work life, but there are proactive steps we can take to minimize their effect on our work. In this interactive session, you will learn new ways to address conflict, equip yourself with easy to implement management tools, and spend more time focused on what you love about your job.

A Pitch-By-Pitch Guide To Elevating Your Leadership Mark Greenburg borrows a page from our national pastime to create a new approach to leadership that puts self-awareness, positivity, accountability, and trust at the forefront. Using baseball statistics as a framework, Elevated Leadership translates the values of the game into a winning strategy for improving your leadership. Mark's proven framework for thinking about leadership utilizes life lessons and examples from baseball that place skill development into a wider context, allowing you to internalize skills and goals that will take you to a higher elevation of inspiring others. If you're ready to build a championship team, this session is for you.

Everything I Know About Leadership I Learned From Camp The campfires, silly songs and carefree days aren't gone. What if you could be transported back to the greatest place in the world? Yes-- Summer Camp. With more than 20 years in the camp business, Mark translates powerful life lessons and leadership strategies into real-world techniques you can put into play at work right now. This session will give you an insightful game plan to foster strong leaders and productive team players, all while gaining a deeper understanding of yourself in the process. Using an emotional- intelligence (EI)-based approach, Mark's approach to leadership focuses on self-awareness, positivity, accountability and trust. Bring your own stories and observations of leadership when you were growing up to this session. You'll leave having laughed, learned and even more ready to lead.

My personal commitment is to provide you with accountability, understanding and support while accomplishing lasting growth.
