Micah Johnson statistically died at the age of 34. His life began in a Y2K cult in the woods of northern Florida. From there he grew to sell almost a billion dollars worth of real estate volume throughout Florida and the US. He has used his tough life lessons as guides and opportunities to intentionally create the life he wants. Micah finds his passion in life inspiring others to free themselves from the things they didn't ask for to live their full potential life.

"Micah has been an amazing presenter within our community for years. His ability to connect and level of empathy given to those who he is speaking to is incredible. Those who are in the room hang onto the words with anxious anticipation of what comes next. Micah is a worthy addition to any platform."
