Meet Dr. Gregory Adaka:

Dr. Gregory Adaka was born and raised in Manchester, England. He returned to the UK to specialize in Emergency Medicine and has a master's degree in health administration from Cornell University. He now lives in Coral Springs, FL, with his beautiful wife Linda of 27 Years and his Children Shavonne 22, Tyfany 18, and Nigel 15. He is currently serving as the Associate Chief Medical Officer for Miami-Dade County Corrections Health Services. Dr. Adaka leverages his extensive expertise in medicine and healthcare systems from both the United States and the United Kingdom. An advocate for logical, critical thinking and a firm believer in the scientific method, Dr. Adaka also embraces the belief that there is that which exists beyond the material world. In 2021, he authored 'Chasing a Shadow', a critical and thought-provoking exploration of the history and socio-political impact of the Church in America.

In his time as a medical professional for the past three decades, Dr. Adaka has seen how people struggle with confusing bills, denied care, and policies that seem to favor profits over patients. With compassion and clarity, he sheds light on a system that's failing too many and speaks up, for those who feel unheard. His message is clear: America can do better, and it must. Have your audience ever felt frustrated or powerless in the face of our healthcare system? If so, this is their invitation to listen, learn, and be part of a hopeful movement for real change.

Dr. Adaka now travels the country to in person and online events helping men and women, whether patients, professionals or policymakers make sense of the broken U.S. healthcare system. He believes that America possesses the financial resources, innovation, and infrastructure necessary to achieve the best healthcare system in the world.

Despite his extensive education and experience, Dr. Gregory Adaka remains humble, authentic and a very engaging speaker.

Testimonials for Dr. Gregory Adaka:

"Dr. Adaka's commentary struck a chord with the audience, particularly his insight: "Nobody wants to stamp on your right to express yourself with free speech, but how ethical is it to shout 'fire' in a crowded theater?" His thoughtful framing reminded us of the responsibility that comes with digital influence in healthcare—and the potential consequences when that responsibility is misused.

We were honored to host Dr. Adaka as a panelist. His contributions challenged attendees to think more critically about the sources and motives behind online health information and underscored the vital role of ethical leadership in today's media-driven medical landscape."
