ABOUT ME

Henry Ackhurst is an accomplished entrepreneur and aspiring motivational speaker with a passion for inspiring others. With a robust background in the media and transportation industry, Henry has successfully built Truckflow, a pioneering media platform focusing on transport, cars, and fuel. His innovative approach and keen understanding of the market have positioned Truckflow as a leader in its field.

Henry's journey is a testament to resilience and the power of perseverance. Born without a father and subjected to abuse by his stepfather until his stepfather's tragic suicide when Henry was just 14, he faced tremendous challenges from a young age. Despite these hardships, Henry became the first in his family to attend university, though he faced setbacks there as well. Undeterred by his initial failures, he channeled his experiences into building one of the most powerful media brands in Africa.
